

Commentary on Galatians

Alberto F. Roldán

Galatians is a letter for our times. It challenges us to learn from and be discerning regarding the struggles our churches face today. It exhorts the leaders of the Latin American church to relearn how to deal with the difficulties that occur within the church and the agitators who come from outside.

Introduction

Author, Date, and Place of Writing

Paul addresses this fervent, passionate letter to “the churches in Galatia” (1:2). This designation is a bit ambiguous since Galatia was a large region, and it is not known exactly which cities or churches Paul intended to address, or if all of them.

---

Alberto F. Roldán is a professor with PRODOLA and FIET, among other institutions, and serves as the Director of Graduate Studies at FIET in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He also edits the journal Teología y cultura, www.teologos.com.ar.

55

---

Vol. 11, No. 1